

Abstract of the Disclosure

An electronic device has two parts than can be opened and closed. A speaker is located in one body part and a sensor, located in the other, detects when the body parts are closed by sensing the magnetic field of the speaker.